➤ DEGREE PROGRAMS

1

The Master of Science in Business Administration (MBA)

The Master of Science in Business Administration program is built for professionals looking to improve their careers by seeking employment in management positions, students looking to establish their businesses, or those seeking success in the business industry. The MSBA degree program will help students, entrepreneurs, and business owners advance their knowledge in a business environment, finance, economy, management, and marketing. Besides, the Master of Science in Business Administration (MSBA) program's mission is to lead students and provide them with specific administrative or leadership positions in public and private institutions.

The Master of Arts in Organizational Leadership (MAOL)

A multi-faceted degree focuses on an organization's mission, values, and goals. Today's small and large organizations enjoy multifaceted and immersive relationships with employees, customers, suppliers, and service vendors. A successful leader must improve the organization's results while responding to owners' needs and values. Those who purposely lead the arc of personal, organizational, and societal influences lay the foundations for success.

THE MASTER OF SCIENCE IN HEALTHCARE ADMINISTRATION (MSHA)

The Master of Science in Healthcare Administration prepares individuals to work with specific populations and communities and improve awareness, education, policy, and research. This degree differs from many other advanced master's degrees in management. It allows students to grow in a specific healthcare administration area, deal with healthcare administration policies and medical statistics problems, and graduate hands-on. The program will provide students with a more advanced understanding of the basic disciplines of healthcare administration requirements and the possibility of advancing knowledge in a specific domain.

➤ COMPETENCY-BASED LEARNING

- Competency-based learning refers to systems of instruction, assessment, grading, and academic reporting based on students demonstrating that they have learned the knowledge and skills they are expected to learn as they progress through their education.
- Transitioning away from seat time in favor of a structure that creates flexibility allows students to progress as they demonstrate proficiency in academic content, regardless of time, place, or pace of learning. Competency-based strategies provide flexibility in how credit can be earned or awarded and provide students with personalized learning opportunities. These strategies include online and blended learning, dual enrollment and early college high schools, project-based, and community-based learning, and credit recovery. This type of learning leads to better student engagement because the content is relevant to each student and tailored to their unique needs. It also leads to better student outcomes because the pace of learning is customized to each student.
- By enabling students to master skills at their own pace, competency-based learning systems help to save both time and money. Depending on the strategy pursued, competency-based systems also create multiple pathways to graduation, make better use of technology, support new staffing patterns that utilize teacher skills and interests differently, take advantage of learning opportunities outside of school hours and walls, and help identify opportunities to target interventions to meet the specific learning needs of students. Each of these presents an opportunity to achieve greater efficiency
